About LLM programme:

The UK LLM in Commercial Law provides an excellent opportunity to immerse you in this important and fascinating area of law. Understanding the principles and challenges of commercial transactions and the regulatory regime for business is essential for anybody who pursues a career in the legal field. This UK law degree enables you to develop expertise in a range of commercial law subjects under the facilitation of the leading law school in Bangladesh.

Who is it for?:

The specialism in Commercial Law will appeal to students at all stages of their career and from around the world who have an interest in the commercial dimension of legal issues. This British law degree will enable you with this focus to develop your career in private commercial practice at law firms or in-house across a variety of sectors. With the broad knowledge available under this wide-ranging specialism, you will also be well-placed to embark on policy-oriented careers in the private or public sector.

Why you choose this programme:

- Higher employability in commercial law sectors
- Affordable compared to other UK LLM/Bangladeshi LLM
- Research based curriculum
- Fully equipped library and resources support
- Distinguished faculty (full time and adjunct)

Career Prospects

As a graduate of this specialist LLM, you will be well placed to pursue careers in this area of law in private practice, in a law firm, government and non-governmental organisations, and a wide range of non-legal careers in trade and commerce.

Students should be able to:

- ★ Gain competence in research skills and structured approaches to legal research;
- ★ Evaluate the extent of theory on the development of commercial law;
- ★ Demonstrate a critical understanding of the functioning of the company as an entity and financial issues related to the company;
- ★ Analyse and effectively evaluate the differing roles of the people who manage and control the company;
- ★ Devise a business plan articulating the legal and financial consequences of engaging in the sale of goods at both national and international levels;
- ★ Apply legal principles to the ownership, use and control of information in the Internet and other media;

Extra-curricular Activities:

We also appreciate the importance of work-based learning at the School. We offer you a chance to shadow an employer, on a very short term basis. The intention is to help you gain invaluable insights into the world of professional work.

You will be assigned with an academic advisor, when you start, who will guide and advise you as to your career and learning options. Your advisor will also be able to assist with any welfare and wellbeing issues you might encounter during your time at BAC International Law School.

Assessment :

Assessment is by way of coursework which comprises 100% of the final mark in each module. Each module carries the same weight in terms of the overall qualification.

At the end of the regular courses, you will be allocated with a dedicated supervisor for your dissertation and he/she will help you develop a specific topic and provide support in terms of resources, content and structure.

Entry Requirements:

Applicants should normally have achieved the following prior to registration for the programme: A minimum of a honours degree in law; or A minimum of a honours degree (in any subject) plus a Graduate Diploma in Law/Common Professional Exam; or Qualification as a solicitor or barrister (or other suitable professional qualification).

Applications are welcome from those with fewer or no formal qualifications assessed on a case by case basis. Any previous relevant work experience and learning will be assessed and, where appropriate, accredited as part of the application process.

For students whose first language is not English, a pass in an approved test in English is needed, e.g. the International English Language Testing Service (IELTS) at 6.0 as a minimum with no component below 5.5, or accepted equivalent test.
